

Clark, Will

Health Care Without Harm Europe

Will is an internationally-recognised environmentalist with over 20 years' experience in corporate social responsibility, carbon management, and resource efficiency. Since 2018 he has been the Executive Director of Health Care Without Harm (HCWH) Europe, the international NGO leading the sustainable healthcare movement in Europe. His role involves providing leadership to the organisation, creating its strategy, designing effective operational processes, developing the team, and reporting progress to its Board of Directors.

Prior to joining HCWH Europe he spent nine years working in the NHS in the UK where he pioneered an award-winning and sector-leading sustainable healthcare programme and had the privilege of developing the largest team of specialist sustainable healthcare practitioners working in the NHS.

He holds a BSc (Hons) in Environmental Biogeoscience from the University of Leeds and an MSc in Environmental Technology from Imperial College London. He is also a Member of the Institute of Environmental Management & Assessment (MIEMA), a Chartered Environmentalist (CEnv), and a Fellow of the Royal Society for the encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce (FRSA).
