

Olwal, John

Novartis

John is passionate about technology, data and digital and how they enable business in a responsible, ethical and compliant manner. He has more than 15 years of experience as a leader, consultant, auditor and subject matter expert in technology Governance, Risk, Audit, Ethics and Compliance within multinational companies in the Financial- , Tech-, Consulting- and Pharma industry.

As the Global Head of Digital Ethics Risk and Compliance at Novartis, John primarily expertise areas are:

- Responsible and Ethical AI, Data ethics, advanced technology risk management and compliance.
- Trusted advisor to the executives and leaders on the approaches to enable responsible, ethical and trusted AI and Data.
- Developing policies and standards and methodologies that enables responsible and ethical use of AI including data ethics across the value chain.
- Embedding responsible and ethical AI in the design of business programs and processes.

John has been engaged in global congresses & forums to advocate for the ethical AI and Data to empower humanity.