

Swaluë, Anne

Belgian Federal Public Service of Public Health, Food Safety and Environment

Anne Swaluë is an International Relations Senior Expert. She joined the Federal Public Service Health in 2019. Her work involves representing Belgium in various international health policy forums and organizations, in particular in relation with the World Health Organization and the European Union.

Since 2021, Anne Swaluë has been collaborating with colleagues from Slovenia and Austria on a project supported by the European Commission under the Technical Support Instrument. This project aims to establish an EU 'Hub' to optimize the use of EU funding opportunities for health investments and health systems' transformations at a national level.

Anne Swaluë holds a Master's degree in Political Science, International Relations and has more than a decade of experience as a civil servant in various public administrations.