Vierke, Hauke
European Commission Directorate-General for Economic and Financial Affairs (online)

Hauke Vierke is Deputy Head of Unit for Sustainability of Public Finances and Public Expenditure Trends at the European Commission’s Directorate-General for Economic and Financial Affairs. His unit assesses the sustainability of public finances in the light of short-, medium- and long-term fiscal risks, including the economic and budgetary impact of population ageing, particularly on pension and healthcare systems. Mr Vierke has more than 10 years of experience at the European Commission, with a focus on the economic and fiscal surveillance of EU Member States and on the coordination and implementation of the Recovery and Resilience Facility following the pandemic. He holds a PhD in Economics from the Universities of Göttingen and Ghent.
